"Free" and "on the house" both mean that you don't have to pay, but the inferred meaning is slightly different. If something is "free" it is without charge. For example, you might ...

What is the opposite of free as in "free of charge" (when we speak about prices)? We can add not for negation, but I am looking for a single word.

If so, my analysis amounts to a rule in search of actual usage--a prescription rather than a description. In any event, the impressive rise of "free of" against "free from" over the past 100 years ...

These rugged, self-contained systems integrate large solar arrays, advanced battery storage, and high-capacity fuel cells -- with optional diesel redundancy when regulatory or client requirements demand it.

Our systems, also known as MAPPS (Modular Autonomous Photovoltaic Power Supply), are the only complete, stand-alone solar electric system specifically designed for industrial applications.

A friend claims that the phrase for free is incorrect. Should we only say at no cost instead?

I want to make a official call and ask the other person whether he is free or not at that particular time. I think asking, "Are you free now?" does't sound formal. So, are there any alternatives ...
