

It's a photon cannon, currently under development by General Atomics. Small, versatile, and completely self-contained, it turns anything onto which you stick it into a powerful laser weapon.

The present invention relates to providing a non-nuclear weapon of mass destruction, wherein a plurality of orbiting solar power generators (microwave and/or laser) coordinate their energy to...

All it takes to build a functional laser cannon from the video game Metroid! Great if your particular corner of the universe is under assault from black balloons.

The laser cannon I sell is a handmade DIY work, mainly used for non-hazardous ...

Summary I heavily remixed vodicarts lizardman battering ram to create this unique solar engine for my army! I have included it supported as well! The tip comes with a hollow option to put an LED light in!

In this article, we will explore the current state of laser cannon technology and look ahead to the potential future developments that could change the face of warfare as we know it.

Both types of fiction highlight the need to understand how laser weapons actually work and what they are used for. A laser uses electricity to generate photons, or light particles.

Laser cannon is solely intended for remotely setting off fireworks, removing wasp nests, and driving away pests such as flies and mosquitoes, cockroaches, scorpions, such as correct and valuable behavior. The purchaser ...

The Laser Space Cannon can project a bright, thick full color laser beam into the night sky with many different color patterns and effects such as strobe, flash, and fade at set speeds, requiring very low AC power.

It was modified into a laser cannon with a diameter of 6.5 km. The interior of the modified colony was mirrored in aluminum (shipped from Zeon's European bases), and equipped with an electric field generator based on the ...

The laser cannon I sell is a handmade DIY work, mainly used for non-hazardous activities such as remote fireworks and hornet nest removal. The light emitted by this device is invisible to the naked eye, and ...

Web: <https://www.idsolar.co.za>