

While you are browsing solar power companies, one of them may offer to install a solar panel or solar roof in your home for a small cost or even for free. It's an intentionally misleading claim.

Going solar can be a great way to save money and improve your home, but choosing the wrong company can lead to disaster. Here's how to avoid solar panel scams

Here's how to dodge solar panel scams and identify red flags. Can solar panels save you money? Interested in understanding the impact solar can have on your home?

As solar grows in popularity, more scammers are targeting consumers. Here are three common solar scams to look out for, how to avoid them and how to report solar scams.

I'm sure it is a company selling solar power solutions, but it is very misleading, making it sound like something affiliated with PG& E or the PUC when it is not and I could see many people...

Scams are unfortunately common in the solar industry. Learn ...

No information about the cost to remove or transfer solar panels, which could lead you to believe you have future options that might not be available or affordable

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. The so-called official offers you an "energy audit" to reduce your utility costs. Or they might try to sign you ...

If you've been approached by someone offering to install solar panels at no cost or promising you'll never have to pay another electricity bill, be careful--it's likely a scam."

Genuine incentive programs and reputable solar energy contractors do exist. Before you accept an unsolicited offer, do some research on solar companies in your area.

Scams are unfortunately common in the solar industry. Learn more about some of the most likely scams you may face when trying to go solar.

Web: <https://www.idsolar.co.za>